

What our Church Logo Represents

The mountains remind us of God's creation in which we live, and the Creator who sustains us and whom we serve.

Purple represents the royalty of the One we serve, the cup of the New Covenant in his blood, and the Passion with which we serve him.

The golden brown reminds us of all that grows upon this earth and the symbol of the bread of communion who is Jesus, the Bread of Life.

First Presbyterian
Church of Sheridan

This is the Great Symbol of the Presbyterian Church (USA). The symbol represents from the bottom-up: The fire of God's revelation; The pulpit of proclamation; the font of baptism; the open Bible for instruction; the descending Holy Spirit to empower; the loaves and the fish of God's provision.
